

P&N Review: Alli's Originals

I have serious key issues, in that I can never find mine when I need them. Even though almost all my diaper bags have key hooks at the top, I always forget to hook the keys or just have my hands full with squirming children, sticky hands and various bags, toys and strollers, and I invariably end up dropping my keys into my bag, where they're pushed to the bottom in a black hole of crumbs, stray mints and confiscated toys. So then when it's time to get back in the car, I'm trying to dig out my keys while still holding the wiggly kids and gear. It was a real problem. So I did a little research and found an answer to all my key-related problems in Alli's Originals. Alli makes a gorgeous beaded key ring, and the large size is perfect in every way. It's oh-so-easy to find your keys no matter where they are and the ring is even large enough to fit around your wrist, which is handy when your hands are full but you need your keys out to unlock the door. I love this key ring! It just might be the best $40 you'll ever spend. Shop online at allisoriginals.com – mention Pregnancy & Newborn magazine with your order and you'll get 10% off your purchase!
